ARKANSAS VOTES NO

Straw Vote in This State Shows for: 538; Against 917

(Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)
The most widespread expression of opinion on the all-pervasive supreme court issue, except toward its climax today as the NEA Service supreme court poll reached a total of 336,528 votes tabulated.

They came from communities served by 223 newspapers scattered through 42 states.

Total vote thus far tabulated is: for the plan to reorganize the supreme court, 120,696; against it, 235,832.

The total of communities favoring the plan fell to 54 today, leaving 169 whose majority vote was against it.

The voting averages nearly 1,600 ballots for each newspaper taking part.

Votes against the plan continued to dominate the poll by a majority of almost two to one, as they have since the first day. The percentage of favorable votes slumped almost imperceptibly in today's tabulation, to 33, with 67 per cent against the plan, remaining within the narrow range of fluctuation which has been the rule of every day's new tabulation.

Thirteen states were in the favorable column; the other 29 had majorities against, though Alabama, Georgia, Oregon, Texas, and Utah were running nearly even and might swing either way in final tabulations.

The Vote, State by State:

Martial Law Ended in Flood District

Emergency Believed Over in Phillips and Desha Counties

LITTLE ROCK—Governor Bailey issued a proclamation Friday declaring martial law ended in the flood area of Phillips and Desha counties.

A small area in Desha county and nearly all of Phillips county, including Helena and West Helena, were placed under martial law January 26 to facilitate removal of refugees from lowland areas to refugee camps at Barton and other places out of the flood zone.

The proclamation said the emergency apparently has ended and that the martial law status is not needed during the period of rehabilitation and return of refugees to their homes.

All National Guards troops, except two or three officers to look after state and government property, were withdrawn from the flood area two weeks ago.

Cotton Belt Road Is Against Merger

Will Fight Consolidation of Rock Island and L. & A. Roads

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—The Cotton Belt railroad Friday obtained authority to intervene in opposition to a proposed consolidation of the Rock Island, Arkansas and Louisiana railroad and the Louisiana and Arkansas railroad.

Permission to protest to the Interstate Commerce Commission was granted Berryman Henwood, trustee for the Cotton Belt, by United States District Judge Charles B. Davis.

Henwood contended the consolidation will cut the Cotton Belt's traffic and declared it is not in the public interest.

Pay-as-You-Go Is Security Proposal

May Tax From Year to Year, Instead of Building Up Big Reserves

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Credit Secretary Morgenthau with throwing a spotlight, although for just a moment, on one of the underlying big problems incident to operation of the social security act.

Within 17 years, he said, "various laws, such as social security, sinking fund, and so forth, will absorb about $30,000,000,000 worth of public debt."

Don't be misled into thinking the social security money will be used to retire the government debt. That isn't the law. His statement simply means that in about 17 years the social security act, together with sinking fund "and so forth" will pile money into the treasury, and the treasury will invest it, just like an insurance company.

But in connection with the prospect of such a sum massing in the hands of government (and some estimate it may be nearly double that) many questions arise that get in the hair of practical politicians as well as in the hair of economists.

Questions

What if there came along a first line war, or a number one national emergency, or a lot of pesky little emergencies? How well would the government withstand the temptation to dip into the pot, take it all in the name of national emergency or pinch it off in bits in the name of national exigency?

Suppose a depression came along and the middle-aged and near-pensioned folk decided they needed the money right away instead of waiting? and the inflationists insisted that the pension savings under social security ought to be pumped into business to perk up business? And columns of elderly and near elderly marched on Washington demanding pre-payment?

Tax Reduction Bill Is Started Through State Legislature

H.M. Barney of Texarkana Author of Million Dollar Measure

CUTS PROPERTY TAX

Described as Most Important Step Taken by Arkansas Senate

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The Arkansas senate started toward enactment Friday a million-dollar-a-year tax reduction law.

Senator H. M. Barney of Texarkana, one of its authors, said the measure, two years in preparation, would reduce the state's 8.7 mills levy against real and personal property between 20 and 25 per cent. Revenues for the tax reduction would come from the state's two per cent sales tax.

The reduction would apply only to the state's two per cent sales tax, in addition to the homestead exemption of up to $1000 valuation provided in a constitutional amendment adopted at the last November general election.

Sen. Hendrix Rowell, co-author of the measure, described it as one of the most important steps ever undertaken by the senate.

Barney said it was his hope that in future years the tax reduction fund could be built up to such an extent that the state property tax could be eliminated entirely.

Taken From Sales Tax

The general property tax reduction fund was created in the Northcutt sales tax bill, sent to Gov. Carl E. Bailey for signature this week. Under that bill, the free textbook and homestead exemption funds receive seven and eight per cent respectively of the total tax income up to maximums of $350,000 annually for homesteaded and $500,000 for non-homesteaded.

The tax reduction fund will receive 32.5 per cent of any surplus over the total maximum allotment of $850,000 a year.

In addition, the Barney-Rowell bill, passed 32-0, adds to the tax reduction fund whatever funds accruing under the present sales tax law are uncollected on the date the Northcutt sales tax goes into effect. 2. Barney estimated these funds would amount to between $300,000 and $400,000. From that would the bill would appropriate $1,000,000 annually for the tax reduction.

Under the bill, the 8.7 mills state tax would continue to be levied against all real and personal property. To effect the reduction, the state auditor would certify to the various county clerks each year the percentage rates upon which taxes should be collected in order that the total collections plus the total available in the tax reduction fund would equal the total amount that would have been collected under the straight 8.7 mills levy.

Norrell Bill Passes

A bill by Norrell of Monticello, transferring a number of balances in "obsolete" funds to the general revenue fund, passed 30-0. The author said between $50,000 and $100,000 would be added to the general revenue fund by the bill, permit the payment of salaries of prosecuting attorneys by the state.

The bill would instruct the treasurer to discontinue the bee tax fund, plant board cash fund, negro boys industrial school fund, oil well bonus fund, fund for printing acts of the 50th general assembly and publishing newspaper advertisements, hangar fund, criminal identification fund, children's home beverage fund, service bureau special fund and general revenue special fund. Any balances in these funds would be paid into the general revenue fund.

The highway audit fund would be discontinued and its balance transferred to the bond refunding fund. Three racing funds would be consolidated into one. A blind pensions fund would be discontinued and balances transferred to the welfare fund. The general revenue fund also would receive any balance in the 50th general assembly fund, interest on all bonds belonging to the state and 50 per cent of any balances in other funds pledged to bond service after obligations for any one fiscal year have been met. The remaining 50 per cent of such balances would go to the state charities fund.

The senate refused to reconsider Friday the passage Thursday of the Thompson teachers' pension bill. The measure passed 26-0, without discussion during a period set aside for "non-controversial" measures. Kinsey of Magnet called it up Friday for reconsideration, saying he desired to give the senators a chance to understand "what they were voting on."

Thompson resisted the move, declaring that although the bill had not been debated at the time of its passage, it had been discussed thoroughly in committee, members had been circled by state-wide organizations had publicly recommended its enactment.

Livingston of Camden also urged reconsideration, terming the bill "class legislation."

"Let's take this up and discuss it again," Northcutt of Salem asked.

Union Group May Attempt to Close Ford Motor Plant

New Jersey Factory May Be First Objective of Labor Body

CONFERENCE CALLED

New and Forceful Blows Are Dealt "Sit-Down" Strategists

By the Associated Press

The Committee for Industrial Organization, supporter of strikes, has many sections of the nation, pointed its unionization drive toward Ford Motor company employees Friday.

President Homer Martin of the United Automobile Workers of America, CIO affiliate, instituted the drive at a Newark, N. J. mass meeting.

He listed the 3700 workmen at Ford's Edgewater assembly plant as the number one objective with New Jersey's oil refineries and textile plants next in line.

The UAW sponsored the recent widespread strikes in General Motors plants and has arranged a collective bargaining conference with the second of the automotive industry's "big three," the Chrysler Motor Corporation.

These significant moves shared attention with a wide range of disputes keeping an estimated 30,000 in idleness.

New and forceful blows were dealt "sit-down" strategists. A militant corps of officers drove 61 squatters from two Fawcett Metallurgical corporation factories at North Chicago, Ill., in a spectacular tear gas attack. CIO and union leaders there were ordered arrested.

The ultimatum "get out or be indicted" prompted 200 others to leave the Northrup aircraft factory at Santa Monica, Calif.

That was the seventh group of "sit-downers" who quit their demonstrations since once-nonplussed officials elected this week to discourage those tactics by forthright action.

The 34 squatters who evacuated the Douglas aircraft plant Thursday were arranged on trespassing charges and released on bonds totalling $431,000. The money, the bail brokers said came "right out of John L. Lewis' war chest." Lewis is the director of the CIO move to unionize the mass production workers—automotive, steel, oil.

At Groton, Conn., 107 stay-in-strikers who were forcibly removed from the Electric Boat company's yards obtained a one week's continuance in their trespassing cases.

New strikes offset settlements. Approximately 1700 UAW members signed in two Detroit auto parts factories, the Michigan Malleable Iron and Thompson Products companies.

Several hundred quit work at two packing houses and a corset plant there. The La Grange flour mill at Red Wing, Minn., closed after 29 employees started a picket parade.

Governor Elmer Benson of Minnesota sought the aid of a federal conciliator in a strike at the Northern States power plants in Minneapolis. Thousands of homes had only intermittent service because of breaks in the lines.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usages by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Does a woman precede or follow a man into a restaurant?

2. If a woman stops to speak to someone at a restaurant table, should the men rise whether they know her or not?

3. When each dish is priced separately on a menu, what is the service called?

4. Should a woman place her gloves and purse on the table beside her?

5. Is a "blue plate" luncheon one which is served at a fixed price?

What would you do if—

You are a woman who has asked a man and his wife as your dinner guests. You are taking them to a restaurant where you are not known and so cannot charge the check—

(a) Order and pay for the dinner in advance?

(b) Give the money to the man and ask him to pay the bill?

(c) Pay at the table as you ordinarily would?

Bullet-Torn Body, Weeping Widow, Outdo Slain Author's Own Mystery Stories

Says Writer Died in Tussle for Gun

Sheriff Believes Humphrey Pearson Was Shot Accidentally

PALM SPRINGS, Calif.—(AP)—Mysterious aspects of the slaying of Humphrey Pearson, scenarist, were ripped aside Friday by Sheriff Carl Raburn who declared it obviously was a case of accidental shooting.

Sheriff Raburn reconstructed thus the scene in the desert resort home of Pearson and his wife Wednesday night.

"Friends of the Pearsons said that often when he drank too much he would be his gun. His wife, fearful he might kill himself, would take it away from him."

"He got the gun that night. He had been drinking. So had Mrs. Pearson. As usual, she struggled to get it away from him. They scuffled over it and the gun was discharged."

"I am convinced it was a case of accidental shooting."

The body of the 43-year-old film writer, who said he went to the film city seven years ago to "beat the Hollywood writing racket" and made good his promise, was found on a bed in the Pearson home Wednesday, a bullet through the chest.

A negro servant found Mrs. Pearson kneeling over her husband's body, sobbing and incoherent. Officers have not been able to question her.

The death weapon was located in another room.

The gay party that preceded the shooting was described by Leonard Mitchell, former Palm Springs night club owner, who said he accompanied the couple on a tour of the resort's bars. He told officers he believed Pearson was intoxicated.

Paraffin tests to disclose whether the hands of the Pearsons or of their two servants bore powder burns were unsuccessful.

Sheriff Raburn said the hands of the subjects were washed before the examinations, and the analyst reported the type of gun and bullet used would have no nitrate stains, anyway.

Records Reveal Modern Girls Are Not So Fickle

MURFREESBORO, Ark.—(AP)—Words Progress Administration workers, indexing Pike county papers, dug up evidence contradictory to sentiment modern girls are more fickle, matrimonially speaking, than their sisters of the hoop and bustle period.

The records show that where 75 couples returned their marriage licenses unused over a 15-year period in the late 1800's, the average during the past score of years has been less than one per year.

Judge Martineau Is Reported Gravely Ill

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Federal Judge John E. Martineau remained in what physicians described as a "very desperate" condition Friday night. A favorable reaction to use of an oxygen tent was reported.

The 63-year-old jurist is suffering from an illness dating from an attack of influenza January 28. A chronic heart condition added another complication.

The announcement of the finding of the body by police said nothing to indicate which, if any, of several suspects now held by authorities, was believed responsible for the crime.

Brickhouse Boomed by House Gallery

Loud Chorus Greeted Pulaski Representative Over Hospital Bill

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Booming of a representative by spectators in the gallery brought Friday from Acting Speaker Tackett of Pike a threat to have the participants arrested and tried for contempt before the house if the incident was repeated.

The loud chorus of booms greeted a statement by Brickhouse of Pulaski that to turn the Little Rock city hospital over to the state as a charity medical school. "He was arguing on an amendment to the hospital bill."

Ward of Lee was the first of the representatives to condemn the spectators, shouting that "this is the first time in my 20 years as a legislator that any such disgraceful happening as this has occurred."

Campbell of Garland declared the spectators who boomed were as guilty of contempt as if they had boomed during a federal court trial and asked that action be taken upon repetition.

Roberts of Faulkner promptly moved that the house go into executive session with only members, employees and newspapermen admitted. There were several seconds. Before a vote could be taken, Roberts withdrew the motion upon request of Brickhouse, who commented:

"It is the students of the medical school who are so highly exercised. It is because they have been misled into believing the school may lose its 'A' rating unless this bill passes. I want them to stay because I think they will agree with me after I conclude."

JACKSON, Ohio.—(AP)—S. O. H. Callahan, Jackson business man, has completed 30 years of unbroken attendance at Sunday school. He says he has been to the Presbyterian church here on all but two Sundays since 1907, and on those two he attended Sunday school out of town.

Roosevelt Asks Action

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt requested all 48 states Saturday to enact soil conservation laws to bulwark the federal government's fight against dust storms and floods.

"The nation that destroys its soil destroys itself," he said in identical letters to be mailed to all governors of the states.

With the letters he will send copies of a state soil conservation bill prepared by the agricultural department of the United States in cooperation with representatives of many states.

It provides enactment of land use regulations after they are approved by local referenda.

Rubinoff Accuser Held for Bigamy

Peggy Garcia Is Indicted Over $500,000 Breach of Promise

NEW YORK—(AP)—Peggy Garcia's big blue eyes opened wide in astonishment when District Attorney William C. Dodge strode up to her Friday and warned she had better "come clean" about whether she was connected with an organized blackmail gang.

Peggy, who dropped a $500,000 breach of promise suit against Dave Rubinoff, Wednesday when it was disclosed she already had a husband, let out a deep breath and said:

"Gee, I had nothing to do with anything like that."

A few minutes later the grand jury indicted her and her second husband, Michael Laroeca, a tombstone salesman, on bigamy charges.

One witness called before the jury was Mrs. Kathleen Laroeca, 30, a nurse, who Peggy's husband of five months as her own.

The blonde former hatcheck girl pleaded innocent to the indictment and was held in $2500 bail pending trial. Laroeca's pleading was adjourned until Tuesday because his lawyer was busy.

Northcutt Bill Designed to Raise $5,000,000 Annually

VESEY BILL DELAYED

President Roosevelt Asks States to Enact Soil Conservation Bill

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Revenue Commissioner Dave Ford announced Saturday that notices will be sent to all Arkansas retailers next week that the Northcutt no-exemption sales tax went into effect Saturday and all future remittances must be made under its provisions.

Governor Bailey signed the Northcutt bill into law late Friday afternoon.

Although intended to remove all exemptions allowed under the old Hall sales tax, the new measure was amended to exempt initial sales by producers of all agricultural products.

Otherwise, it levies a flat two per cent tax on all retail sales made in the state.

Attack of Measles Will Lower Victim's Resistance to Other Ills
 By DR. MORRIS FISHER
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

The contagious material from the measles victim is the secretions from the nose and throat, and excretions of the body, which may contain the virus of the disease.

In preventing the spread of measles, every possible step must be taken to prevent other children from coming in contact with such material. If there is an infection in the patient's ear, the resulting discharge may contain the infectious substance of measles.

An attack of measles will lower the resistance of the victim to tuberculosis, pneumonia, and other contagious diseases. Epidemics of measles frequently follow by epidemics of whooping cough, chicken pox, diphtheria, and scarlet fever.

Very mild cases of tuberculosis of the spine, bones, joints, or lungs may suddenly become serious infections should the children infected have measles at the same time.

Measles is not a trivial disease. It is far more serious than most people think. Some authorities have recommended that every measles victim be placed in hospital to prevent as far as possible the secondary danger of pneumonia or streptococcal infection.

After the child has recovered from measles, the sheets, bed linen, and other materials should be burned, especially if healthy children are soon to enter the home.

Fathers' Idealization Costs Sons Early Companionship

When Sonny was born, daddy thrust out his chest and passed the cigars with a grin of content that did your heart good. "A boy," he said, "a kid to carry on. One you can understand and be proud of." That was the way he talked.

And in some way, when we listened, we were happy for his wife, too, lying there all tucked out in the hospital. If it had been a girl, she would have felt guilty, because James had refused to consider the idea of a female child.

Well, a few months have passed. James can't interest so much now, for some reason or other known only to men. He hadn't included daddies and colic and "spitting up" in his dreams of what he had when he was so enthusiastic about the baby a time ago. For some reason, he needs unbroken sleep, too, while his spouse is up and down at all hours. A man can't work, you know, unless he gets his rest. In brackets, he never used to think that getting in from a party at two o'clock interfered much with work.

The Boy Grows Older

But this could be true of a girl offspring as well as a boy. Up to this point, we understand thoroughly.

But now comes the next stage. Sonny is into everything. He wants to hang around and tear, and gets bumped and cries. Who is patient with him? Father?

"Can't you keep that kid quiet?" he yells. "I can't read or have a minute's peace."

Right now we see the end. Mother is shielding the boy because she wants peace. She does not want his father to think of the stirring child as a nuisance.

The rest of us know what is ahead and the mother may sense it. But dad, with cigars and boasting long forgotten, is not worrying. He is the only one who isn't.

He is looking forward to an impossible day when he and his grown son will be fast friends, when Sonny will be a superhero, beating all his classmates at marks, making records at sports, and then stepping out into business at a five-figure salary.

And it won't come true, for the simple reason that until that time comes, this man will be impatient and unsympathetic with a boy's natural mistakes and shortcomings.

Who says that women are the only idealists? If we would draw a perfect picture, it would be that of a man dreaming dreams and then absolving himself from the responsibilities to make those dreams come true.

Stranger still is this fact. That had a "Sissy" been born to them instead of a "Sonny," this same father would most likely be her ally and friend through the ensuing years.

I take only one man, of course, but he has plenty of company. A boy needs to know that his father understands him, likes him and is proud of him, even though he makes mistakes, lacks push and muscle and daring-do.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAPHNE BRETT, good-looking, successful young New York advertising executive, decided to rent a beautiful Connecticut estate her father left her when he was killed in a hunting accident. She needs the money after five years of providing for the education of her younger sister, JENNIFER, who has just finished college.

Daphne, showing the estate to some unimpressed prospective tenants, is surprised when an attractive young fellow she has never seen before steps into the picture and offers $150 a month rent. Glad to hold out her first offer, she accepts and finds her new tenant to be LARRY SMITH, prominent architect. And at once she finds herself somewhat disturbed by his coming into her life. When he leaves she pictures herself in the same house as "Mrs. Smith."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

THE girl at the corner table glanced anxiously at her watch and studied the menu. Then she spied the slim figure in brown tweeds she had been waiting for.

"Daphne Brett," she said severely, "you're half an hour late."

"I know, Anne, but I've been over to the bank to deposit my tenant's check. He's staying on another two months until the end of November. Also, I've a very good reason for being late. Wait until you hear why."

"Unless it's bad news, let's order before you tell me. I've got to get some layouts to Murray before two." Anne Cockerell was a successful young commercial artist and her friendship with Daphne had begun in the Johnstone Advertising Agency when Daphne was a lesser member of the copy staff.

"You order and I'll talk, Anne."

Anne ordered their usual lunch. "Now talk!"

"I've been promoted! I'm a full-fledged copy writer now with two accounts of my own to handle exclusively, an office of my own with my name on the door and fifty more a month. Not bad?"

"Bad? It's colossal! From rags to riches, or, from stenographer to career woman in five short years. Tell me, did you always dream that some day you'd be a successful advertising writer?"

"On the contrary," Daphne denied. "Do you know, Anne, I once wanted to be an actress? People are always surprised when I tell them that. I used to be fair at dramatics when I was in college and I meant to go into the theater when I finished—but she sighed almost imperceptibly—"you know Jennifer had to be taken care of and Dad—"

Anne knew all about that; knew that at 19 Daphne had left college to come to New York to support herself. She had done it so that the small sum Tom Brett had left to his motherless daughters might be used to send the then 13-year-old Jennifer to a good school.

It was Jennifer. Not the Jennifer of the pigtail! This was a young sophisticate with golden hair, Jennifer with every point of beauty heightened by skillful makeup.

this in five years, I've a wonderful future. I'm going to work hard and some day . . .

"Some day you'll have a fat bank account and wake up being an old maid," Anne finished tartly. "I wouldn't let this career angle creep into conversations when you're talking to an attractive man. By the way, did you tell the mysterious Smith you were a business gal?"

"Mr. Smith? I told him I had a job, that was all. Why?"

"Oh, I just thought since you two had a cozy tea, you might have gone just a little way into the histories of your lives. Particularly since you seem to have found him interesting."

"Nonsense, Anne," Swift color flooded Daphne's smooth cheeks. "He's married and you know how I feel about married men."

"What's his wife like?" Anne asked casually.

"I don't know. I've never seen her. I haven't seen him either since the day he engaged the place. He sends his check the first of every month. Anne, at first he used to write little amusing notes

When Daphne's heroic charge foundered in the gunfire along Cemetery Ridge, at Gettysburg, the fate of man kind in this modern world was irrevocably changed for the worse. The way was cleared, by that battle, for the era of mass production and super-industrialism, and it is to that era that we owe most of our dire troubles today.

So says the eminent novelist, Ford Madox Ford, in his uncommonly stimulating and impassioned book, "Great Trade Route" (Oxford Press; $3).

Mr. Ford writes of a tour from France to Tennessee, and speaks of many things; but mostly he is concerned with the fix into which the race has got itself, and he sees the American Civil War as the pivotal point.

In that war, he says, two kinds of society contended for the mastery. In the south there was a society based on the soil, without great cities or great industries, a society in which human values predominated. In the north there was a harder, more acquisitive society, which was beginning to dedicate itself to the machine.

The north won—and made certain the triumph of the machine age. And in the machine age, says Mr. Ford, there is neither virtue nor happiness. Unless we can get clear away from it and restore the values of the lost years in which life was simpler, freer, wiser, and healthier, Mr. Ford believes we shall eventually rush down a steep place to the sea and perish together.

Now you may agree with very little of this—but you will find the book well worth reading, nonetheless. For by questioning all the things which we ordinarily take for granted, Mr. Ford compels us to re-examine them and do a little independent thinking.

Teacher—George, give me a sentence which includes the word "fascinate."

Yankee Players Off for Training Camp

Gomez Likely to Join the Team Saturday at $12,000 Salary

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The New York Yankees' first squad will go south Saturday, but unless Col. Jacob Ruppert and Pitcher Lefty Gomez get along better than they did Friday, Gomez will be missing.

Gomez visited Ruppert at Colonel Jake's brewery to see what could be done about getting more than Ruppert's offer of $12,000. The colonel ended the conference in short order by telling Lefty there was no chance whatever. Gomez indicated he may sign at Ruppert's terms in time to leave with the squad.

Lefty is holding out for $15,000. Ruppert said, the pitcher has been working under a two-year contract at $20,000 a year, but was offered $7,500 this year. Ruppert raised this to $10,000 in his first conference with Gomez and to $12,500 in the second.

Pitchers Red Evers, Monte Pearson, and Jim Tolan and Catcher Bill Dickey, all of whom are due in camp Monday at St. Petersburg, Fla., have not come to terms.

Pitchers and catchers who are not in camp Friday must pay their expenses to the training base when and if they sign.

Baugh Will Coach TCU Freshmen

"It's What I Wanted to Do From the Start," He Tells Reporters

FORT WORTH, Texas.—(AP)—Sam Adrian Baugh, TCU's great quarterback of the past three grid seasons, autographed a contract to become freshman coach at his alma mater Friday morning. He takes charge of the Wags team—football, basketball and baseball—starting next September.

Thus ended the wild gambling bee that has been going on among Baugh's friends and school mates for two months. The famous passer from Sweetwater, who made some 17 All-American teams last fall, was deluged with offers of all kinds. He's been trying desperately to make up his mind for weeks.

"It's what I wanted to do from the start," Sam said.

Terms were not revealed.

Hookworm Carried in Drinking Water

Disease Heretofore Believed Transmitted by Walking Barefooted

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—An army medical officer declared Friday hookworm, like typhoid fever, cholera and dysentery, may be carried in drinking water.

The disease, which Public Health Service officials estimated normally affects 4,000,000 persons in the United States, heretofore was believed to be transmitted only by walking barefooted over infested ground.

The new concept and proof to support it was offered by Maj. Clyde C. Johnston in The Military services.

He also declared the anemia normally associated with hookworm is not caused by the worm but by lack of proper food.

The new facts were uncovered, Major Johnston said, when he discovered a soldier in the 65th Infantry in Puerto Rico who had hookworm and later found about 11 per cent of the enlisted men in one battalion surveyed were similarly infested.

Although these cases were freed of the worms, a survey of the same group a year later showed an almost identical percentage infested.

GENUINE REPAIRS Costs Less

Because Ford does such a tremendous volume in the United States and abroad, the production costs are much lower because of quantity buying and of owning his own factories. The middleman or wholesaler is eliminated . . . we get our replacement parts direct from the nearest Ford assembly plant, naturally also there is a saving in freight this way too.

GENUINE REPAIRS Last Longer

Because Ford has his own chemists and engineers, each piece of steel and every ingredient is thoroughly tested before that particular part is manufactured. Naturally when Ford controls steel and other factories, he is able to dictate what materials shall be used and what ones shall not. This is the reason why Genuine Ford parts last longer.

GENUINE REPAIRS Are Reliable

When Ford Motor Company puts its signature on its products it means that it is backed by years of research and experience. It means that this particular part has the very best materials yet the cost is no more than the "just as good" replacement part.

Growth

By the choice we make
Of the road to take,
By the things that we do or say;
By our yes or no
To the cry: "Let's Go!"
We are fashioned from day to day.
By our will to bear
What comes to care,
By our spirit in work or play,
By the little tasks
Which life always asks
We are fashioned from day to day.
We are known to men
By the notes we pen
Of comfort and help and cheer,
And the minutes we spend
To play the friend
To one who needs friendship here.
Oh, it isn't by fate
That men grow great,
But it's choosing which road to take;
It's seeking what's right
By day and by night
And sharing another's care.

Mexico Bans Sale of Liquor to Indigents

MEXICO CITY.—(AP)—Beggars and blind, dumb, paralyzed or "recognized indigent" persons will have a hard time buying a drink in Mexico after Friday.

President Lázaro Cárdenas ordered bars to stop selling drinks to persons in those classifications. By this, he said, he was merely putting into effect resolutions adopted by the national anti-alcoholic congress at Puebla last year.

AT THE THEATERS

At the New.
Crouching on a wagon tongue between two runaway horses, while he blazes away with two six-shooters at his pursuers, is one of the daring feats performed by Tex Ritter, the singing cowboy star, in "Headin' For the Rio Grande," newest romantic musical western, now at the New theatre.

Between thrills like this, Tex sings some new and tuneful cowboy ballads, just to prove that he is as adept with his guitar as he is with his six-guns.

Selected short subjects are the serial "Darkest Africa," which is now chapter No. 10 and a real comedy. Those delightful, romantic young screen lovers, the handsome, boyish Eric Linden and his exquisite little blonde partner, Cecilia Parker, who, as a team, scored so notably in M-G-M's recent outstanding screen successes, "Ah, Wilderness," and "Old Hutch," will be seen here next Sunday and Monday in the picture, "In His Steps," suggested by the immortal works of Charles M. Sheldon, which millions have read, that is proving a sensation wherever it has been shown.

The screen story, which is thoroughly modern in theme and settings, although it carries the message of the original novel, which was written more than forty years ago, deals with the experience of two youngsters, a boy and a girl, who seek to solve their problem in defiance of social conventions and the law, rather than be the victims of their parents' selfishness and personal antagonisms. You will find new thrills and entertainment of a different kind, when you see "In His Steps."

Added fun on this two day program will consist of Jackie Coogan in "Love in September," plus the most interesting subject "Winner Magic" one of the Fox Magic Carpet series.

Final naturalization papers are granted 90 days after application has been filed.

NEWS CHURCHES

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Venon A. Hammond, Pastor

Every class will meet every member present Sunday to end the month "Out of the Red."

The pastor will speak at both morning and evening worship services. The morning sermon, following the Communion Service, will be on the subject "The School to Patience." Sunday marks the close of the first six months of the pastor's service here, and the morning sermon will deal with plans for the future.

The evening sermon, following a song service beginning at 7:30 p. m., will be on "Another Chance, or Pottery's Clay." Wise and blessed is the man who places the fragments of his life in God's hands and allows Him to reconstruct his life and remove the blemishes. Jesus said, "He that abideth in Me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit; for without Me ye can do nothing."

Sunday this church will join the entire brotherhood of the Disciples of Christ in taking a special offering for the relief of our churches in the flood zones. Arkansas churches are being asked to make the offering a memorial to the late State Secretary Grant K. Lewis, who passed away last Monday night, just after completing plans for this appeal to the churches.

Come and worship with us Sunday.

Morning subject, "God's Ownership." Evening subject, "The Faithful Question."

Let us not forget to come to church and Sunday school, as we know the acquisitive instinct is native to everyone. The use of the possessive pronoun begins early in life and continues long. "My mother," "My toy," "My home," "My money," etc.

The relation to the rest of life determines our recognition of God's place in world and our individual attitude toward Him. We should be very careful to consider our Master in all things and take off enough time from our daily routine of living to spend an hour or so in the house of God. The Holy Spirit is the active agent of the Godhead, working out the will of the Father and the provisions of Jesus among men. In the purpose and provisions of God a Christian is eternally saved when he yields to God.

The fulfillment of that eternal salvation is dependent upon the condition by the will and co-operation of man. If we are ever plucked from our Father's hand it will be by our own act of disobedience let us remember to keep the Sabbath day holy.

Let not our hands be washed in water that cleanness not or our lives end up as Pilate's. Pilate's end was tragedy. Lost his throne soon after. Died in disgrace. In hell he still seeks water for his hands and an answer to his question, "What shall I do with Christ?"

All that leaves Pilate on the pages of history is his contact with Christ. Pilate's question is every man's question.

Let us not be guilty of turning away our savior. Come and enjoy the old time salvation together. We urge you to attend church some where each Sunday, for man's attitude and rebellion limits and hinder God, man's sin separate from God. God cannot smile on a wicked, perverse character. Man can have God's help if he meets God's requirements.

6 Months Given New Auto Union

United Has That Long in Which to Get General Motors Majority

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis's fever probably went two or three degrees up or down, whichever way he likes it best, when the news was brought to his sick bed in Detroit that the strike was ended and his outfit was given a good track position.

In effect, the peace agreement gave the United Automobile Workers, affiliated with Lewis's Committee for Industrial Organization, six months in which to line up a majority to deal with General Motors as a bargaining agent under the Wagner act. To a labor leader, nothing could be sweeter except perhaps company surrender.

Meantime, unless Governor Frank Murphy sees some other employee group is getting an unnecessary hot end of the poker, no other labor organization will be given the right to deal with the company. That was a company concession of no mean proportion since it was contrary to what his representatives long had been holding out for.

Breather Needed
The armistice provided a breather for Washington, which in these latter few days has found scarcely enough unbent air to go around.

One ready surmise was that the company sought to show that the business-labor machine would work in orderly fashion and there was no necessity for changing the Supreme Court so special remedies could be legislated and applied.

If it can be accepted that labor success ebb and flow in the manner of tides, business cycles and influenza epidemics, labor now might be seen as on the upswing. Encyclopedia Britannica says this about the down trend:

"The years 1923-33 were characterized by an ebb both of union strength and of strike activity. It was an era of employer domination. Led by such great industries as steel, automobiles, meat packing and textiles, and resorting sometimes to force and in other circumstances to welfare capitalism, the employers came close to driving unions out of manufactures. . . . The activity of communists and socialists in trying to capture control of the labor movement forced the unions to divert much of their fighting strength to resist this 'boring from within'."

His Big Hour
Lewis, at his recent Washington press conferences exuberated confidence that his big hour has come.

Incidentally that strike was no penny ante game. Estimates were that the cost to workers alone in lost wages was $1,000 a day, or $44,000,000 for the period of the strike. They received wage increases from General Motors amounting to $25,000,000 a year at the time of settlement of the strike, but it will take nearly two years of that increase to write off the lost wages.

Once upon a time Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts settled a police-men's strike in Boston, made himself famous and grew up to be president. Once upon a time Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan settled an automobile strike, made himself famous and—oh, well four years is a fairly long time—and there's the Supreme Court.

Here's a Speech Landon Didn't Give

Wrote Bitter Attack on Court Proposal, Then Toned It Down

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON—Imagine the embarrassment of a Republican member of the Kansas delegation when Alfred Landon headed eastward with a pocketful of typewritten dynamite on the Supreme Court issue that he intended to let loose before a New York audience.

Now the Kansas Republicans have been trying to preserve at least a semblance of non-partisanship on the Supreme Court issue.

Full of Dynamite
And here came Landon loaded for bear. Members of the Kansas delegation saw the speech. They half-expected. Mr. Landon, still a little nettled by his treatment last November 3, had written a scathing indictment of Mr. Roosevelt's scheme of court revision.

He went back into the campaign period for a springboard from which to launch his attack. He recalled that on October 29, speaking in Madison Square Garden, he said:

"And what are the intentions of the President with respect to the Constitution? Does he believe changes are required? If so, will an amendment be submitted to the people, or will he attempt to get around the Constitution by tampering with Supreme Court. The answer is: No one can be sure."

With that as a basis, the governor really let himself go.

The Kansas delegation and others went into a huddle, then asked Landon if he did not think it would be better to keep this Supreme Court fight on a non-partisan basis.

Well, it developed that Mr. Landon thought so, but here he had an invitation, many months old, to deliver a speech on Lincoln's birthday in New York and he didn't want to be found skirting the issues of the day. He let them know that if he had been out in Kansas where it would not look as if he had gone out of his way to take a swipe at the President, he certainly would have given that speech.

But it turned out he was agreeable to modifying it. He took out every mention of the court and his hearers were left to make what they could of a 500-word remnant in which the stoutest words were that the issues before the country were too big for partisanship.

"The whole future of the country is involved. Upon these issues I have strong convictions, but I shall not avail myself of this occasion to discuss them further."

The Kansas delegation came back to Washington breathing easier.

Doctor—You cough with greater ease this morning, I see.

Patient—Why shouldn't I? I've been practicing all night.

of "the old age bonus." But if no big fund is build up in which employees have a definite concrete stake which they can call theirs by right, then what assistance is there that some congress might not decide to abolish social security, or reduce it gradually? Already there is afoot a program backed by many business men urging that the social security payments be met on a pay-as-you-go basis by raising enough taxes each year to pay the needs rather than by taxing enough in addition to pile up a reserve fund.

If employees pay social security taxes on a pay-as-you-go plan for several years, can they argue that they have a "right" to pension or unemployment benefits as convincingly as if they had an actual reserve opposite their names on the social security register?

Defenders of the reserve fund plan argue that unless employee "rights" to pension or unemployment benefits are made evident by such a fund, there will be a tendency by employers through the years to seek to trim off part of the benefits so their own share of the tax loan will not be so heavy.

NOW: Simplified Rates on Classified Ads!

Effective now Hope Star is substituting a new and lightning-quick word-rate in place of the cumbersome old line-count method of figuring classified advertising charges.

HERE'S HOW—

For one time, simply multiply the number of words in your ad by 2 cents. The minimum charge is 30 cents.
For three times, simply multiply by 3 1/2 cents. The minimum is 50 cents.
For six times, multiply by 6 cents. Minimum 90 cents.
For one month (26 insertions) multiply by 18 cents. The minimum charge for a month is $2.70.

THE RATE'S THE SAME

There's no change in the rate—it has just been placed on a word basis for the public's convenience.
Note from the above schedule how the rate declines as the insertions increase. An ad run for a week (six times) costs 6 cents a word—only a penny a word a day.
Of course the ad must run consecutively—without a break.

HOW TO COUNT

In making your word-count, disregard the classification name such as "For Rent," "For Sale," etc.—this is free. But each initial or name, or complete telephone number, counts as a full word. Here's an example:
FOR RENT—Three-room modern furnished apartment, with garage, close in. Bargain. J. V. Blank, Phone 9999.
Total, 15 words, at 2 cents a word, a charge of 30 cents for one time; at 3 1/2 cents a word, a charge of 53 cents for three times, etc.

NOTE: All orders placed by telephone are due and payable upon presentation of bill.

Ho Can Take It.
LINCOLN, Ill.—(P)—Max Silverman says he can take it but he thinks he has had enough.
First, a burglar climbed into his bedroom and removed $163 from his trousers. Then fire caused about $1.00 damage to his warehouse building.
Learning of the fire, his wife started to return to Lincoln from Chicago. As she was about to board a bus, she slipped on the ice, and went to the hospital with a fractured leg.

"Has your wife changed very much since you married her?"
"Yes—my habits, my friends and my hours."

A married man is a person who goes round the house at night and shuts up everything except his wife.
—Humorist.

Visitor—Do you mean to tell me that you have lived here 10 years and cannot tell me the quickest way to the station?
Native—Well, you see, sir, I've been a taxi driver all those years.

Legal Notice

ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION
Saturday, March 20th

Notice is hereby given that the annual school election for Hempstead County will be held the third Saturday, the 20th day of March, 1937. All school elections in all school districts shall be held between the hours of 2 and 6:30 o'clock in the afternoon. At this election the electors shall vote for school directors, for, or against school tax and on such other questions as may be presented according to the school laws of the State of Arkansas. The voter is to indicate on his ballot the number of mills voted for the support of public schools.

Rural school districts, i. e., districts having a scholastic enumeration of 150 or less, shall vote for one school director for a term of three years. In school districts having a scholastic enumeration of 150 or more persons one director for a term of 5 years shall be elected.

Hope school district shall elect two directors for a term of three years. All vacancies, filled by appointment since the last school election shall be supplied by the electors at this election. The term of office shall be the remainder of the period for which the director regularly elected was chosen.

The polling places shall be the public school building of the several school districts, and such other place as have been designated by authority of the school laws of Arkansas.

E. E. AUSTIN,
County Examiner,
Hempstead County.

ANNUAL ENUMERATION
March 10th—March 30th

The annual enumeration of all persons of scholastic age—6 to 21 years is to be taken March 10th to March 30th. The names and ages of the blind, deaf-mute, insane and crippled should be included in this report. The necessary supplies for taking this enumeration will be sent school boards during the first week in March.

E. E. AUSTIN,
County Examiner,
Hempstead County.
